THE WEATHER

Cooler tonight with fair in northern and showers in southern portion. Frost tonight Thurs fair, and cooler.

Since it's so fashionable for these one-hoss towns to invite Taft to winter with them, we forgot the novelty of sending one for Dothan. Still, we are sure we could interest him.

The ginner's cotton report shows two million bales ahead of last season up to Nov. 1st, but if the crop is as near all gathered in the cotton belt as it is in this section, this apparent increase of yield will be greatly reduced when the total crop is known.

It is talked that Roosevelt is to succeed Platt, as a New York Senator, and how in the world they can figure it out that Roosevelt can succeed such a man as Platt is more than we can see. We thought all the time that it was not a successor that New York wanted for Platt, but a United States Senator for that state.

The killing of ex-Senator Cramack on the streets of Nashville Monday is one more reason why it isn't safe for an editor to write everything that he feels like writing. He was a brilliant man, a brilliant editor of the Nashville Tennessean, but he had a grudge against a public man, a political grudge, it's true, and he never let up on him. The man met and shot it out.

Important Court Decision.

The Supreme Court of the U.S. rendered an important decision yesterday in the case of Berea college against the state of Kentucky.

The court ruled that a state may constitutionally legislate to prevent the co-education of the white and black races.

The higher state court took the position that the white and black races are naturally antagonistic and that the enforced separation of the children of the two races is in the line of the preservation of the peace. The opinion of the supreme court was handed down by Justice Brewer and affirmed the finding of both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals. Justices Harlan and Day dissent.

Makes No Difference.

President Roosevelt has given out to the associated press, a letter upon the subject of Mr. Taft's religion. The president doesn't say what religious faith is held by the incoming president. He does say, however, that in his opinion, it makes no difference whether Mr. Taft is a Unitarian or an infidel, so he makes us a good president. The president regrets to see this religious question lugged into politics; and he says further that he expects this country to see Roman Catholics and even Jews elevated to the presidential chair in time to come. The president thinks thus a question which is alone between a man and his God. There are lots of folks who will disagree with Mr. Roosevelt in his liberal views upon the Christian religion of our fathers.

South-East Ala. Dental Association Organized.

The dentists of Southeast Alabama met in Dothan Monday, at the Mullen Hotel parlors, and organized a Southeast Alabama Dental Association, to meet semi-annually.

After many interesting talks from those present, the body went into permanent organization, and the following officers were elected:

Dr. J. R. McNair, Ozark, president; Dr. T. H. McEntyre, Dothan, vice-president; Dr. A. J. Wright, Enterprise, 2nd vice-president; Dr. D. B. O'Kelly, Slocumb, secretary-treasurer.

The following were named members of the executive committee: J. R. McNair, Ozark; J. U. Pearson, Abbeville; J. M. Stevens, Dothan; M. K. Ford, Elba.

The purpose of the association is to further advance the dental profession to a higher professional plane, and harmonize the profession in a more brotherly spirit.

Six counties were represented in the organization.

The next meeting will be held the second Saturday in April, 1909.

Iron Business Looking Up.

The iron industries in the South are looking up, and the Birmingham district especially report a bright outlook with plenty orders coming in. This brightening prospect is no doubt due to the political situation being cleared, and there being nothing else to do now but go to work developing the country. Every indication points to a resumption of business with a future period of prosperity.

Very Nearly Trouere

"Horace you don't love me as you used to."

"Not altogether, Horace. When we were first married I loved you for your beauty. Now I love you for your real worth, your many excellencies of mind and heart and for your."

"So, Horace Higginworth? You think I've got entirely over my good looks do you? Let me tell you, sir!"

"And for your unfailing sweetness of disposition, my dear."

Uncertain whether to go ahead and seduce him just the same or to indulge in a good cry she compromised by doing neither and fell to darning his socks with renewed energy.

A Conundrum.

Little Flora - Mumma, you ain't a girl are you? Mumma-Certainly not, I'm a woman. Little Flora - But we were a little girl weren't you? Mumma Oh yes years ago Little Flora - Well, where is the little girl now that you used to be? - Chicago News

Stasm.

"Can you tell me what stasm is?" asked the examinee.

Why sure, sir replied Patrick confidently. "Stasm is - why er - it's wather that's gone crazy wid the heat." Everybody's

A Star or the Sun.

One of the stories that Disney was born to tell with the greatest skill is that of an absent-minded astronomer who, scanning the heavens one night, was much puzzled by a phenomenal brightness for which he tried to take account. For hours he sat profoundly studying the phenomenon and while he was thus engaged day light arrived. After awhile the absent-minded astronomer stumbled to bed telling himself sleepily that if he remained out of bed much longer he would miss his night's rest. - Chicago Record-Herald

Fire Yesterday.

Yesterday evening about 3 o'clock, the department was called out to the dwelling house of Mrs. M. A. Faulk, corner Troy and Lena streets.

One of Mrs. Bart Thrasher's little boys set fire to some tarpentine droas which lay in the coal house, with the result that a fire soon spread, that not only alarmed the youngster but also the inmates of the house and everybody around.

The blaze extended over the small coal bin and before the department arrived, it had crept up the side of the kitchen and was in the roof when the stream of water was put on.

No great damage was done as help came just in time to save the building and contents.

Wrong Place.

Mr. Clarence Conrad, Chief of the Fire Department, requests us to state that they were directed yesterday evening to the Thrasher House, hence the delay in reaching the fire on Lena street as soon as they might have done had they been properly instructed at the start.

I respectfully invite your attention, and ask your consideration, that, in the matter of the various kinds of INSURANCE, it will be the policy of this office to treat the assured fairly and courteously, and to render ALL ASSISTANCE POSSIBLE in the quick and satisfactory adjustment of any claims or losses. Business with me will receive prompt attention upon expiration, there being no possibility of failure to keep you protected.

Fire insurance rates, usually, are very low (.75c per $100 for dwellings and furniture per annum; and $1.50 for three year period; stores and other buildings correspondingly low),—however, should your rate seem high, I will be very glad to go over it with you in an endeavor to have it lessened.

I know of no Agency carrying stronger Companies than the American, Hanover, Niagara, Southern of Lynchburg, Sun of New Orleans, Royal of Liverpool, Florida Home, and Philadelphia Underwriters.

You carry insurance—is it sufficient? The small outlay invested each year for protection is small indeed when compared with the reimbursements you would receive should fire destroy your premises.

As to terms, it will be my pleasure to show you any consideration which the circumstances will warrant.

Think it over, and if you have any business expiring in the next several months that I may handle, a card with the amount, date of expiration, description, and situation, will be appreciated.

Thanking you for your consideration, I am,

Very truly yours,

HUGH G. SMITH.

SPECIAL PRICES

We have had a good business this fall, and in handling the large lot of clothing we have, naturally, we have many odd suits of certain lots. These suits are of the very latest style, and the highest workmanship. But we want to run out the odd suits at a price that will sell them. It doesn't matter much what that price is. They are going in this sale at from twenty-five to fifty per cent reduction. The chances are, you would find a suit that will fit you perfectly at the very rates that can be sold at a reduction that will move the lot. Come in and let us show them to you. We have many lots not broken, of the highest class. We have what you want in clothing.

A CLOTHED CITY — "A clothed city can be as well as a great sea to my work," said James C. Frissell, "but I am not so successful in getting a picture to be framed," said a young artist who spends much of his time at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He said he was impressed by the French artist's work, and was sure it was the same of the other English work. "I enjoyed the picture of a man with a kind of quiet character, good coloring, and all those things, and even the picture of the guards in the gallery, yet not friendly you say and remarked that it was the best copy of that picture he had seen. I began to think that maybe after all, my several years of study were beginning to bear fruit. At the framer I picked out a fine frame, and the framer began to figure up the cost. "Tell you, when I told him what frame will come to $250 if I were you'd get something cheaper for that picture." — New York Sun.

"Boiling the River on Fire." In old English times when each family was obliged to eat its own food it sometimes happened that an over-greedy man would turn his wife or rags into oil to cause it to catch fire. The style of dress used in those days was called a "tunic," and it became a curious saying that a lazy man would never set the tunic on fire. Now, it happens that the name of the river Arkansas is pronounced like the name of this old dear wife, and after many years, when the old fashioned tunic was forgotten, it was thought that setting the tunic on fire meant setting the river on fire, and that is why today we say that a stupid person will never set the river on fire.

"When I first started out hunting apartments I went through a long route of dissertation," said the woman who has a hundred toes and weary feet. "Now I go in and say to the elevator man 'Are you Tom's Apartments?' — 'Yes' — 'Keep 'em.' I get along just as well, and it saves lots of time. Try it." — New York Times.

Not His Fault

Dad—Johnnie, your teacher tells me that you are at the foot of your class. How's that? Johnnie—That ain't my fault, dad. They've taken Tommy Tuff out and sent him to a reform school—Binghamton.

The Dog Was Owned
"I don't care if we pay you a god-dam cent," said the man who had been through the gauntlet of life. "I ought to give you a dollar more." "There at the beginning of my career I played the part of a 'dog,' and in this part a very timid male, or a kind of Rizzo dog. Then the leading men told me one day, 'Call in my help to mould a nature like this.' "All right," said I. "What do you want?" "You know how odd the men in the third act, I write a letter while you stand beside me and wait to carry it to your mistress." "Well, after the letter is finished I'll reach over you for an oblique kiss and hope as I do on your white roses. Of course it will make a large black stain, but you'll see—it will bring down the house."

"I laughed heartily.

"Capital!" I said. "And I'd finish the thing off with a little ring of my own. As soon as you have wiped your nose on my nice collar I'll walloped round and knock you down. Of course it will hurt you a little, but you'll see it will be the hit of the show."

"Hurry up, Tommy," called mother from downstairs. "We're late now. Here you got your shoes on?"

"Yes, mamma, all but one."

Hat Show

On opening a new golf course at Tannery Hill, Wiltshire, Mr. Alexander Douglas related a good story. A golfer at Hale had an irritating experience with a local caddie. He found a cloudy cloud was as anxious to please by intelligent anticipation that the player had several narrow escapes of severely disfiguring him. After a tedious and irritable round he paid him off, gave him his handicap and three pence for cleaning his clubs and addressed him. "You know you are not quite perfect as a caddie. There is room for improvement. But as an agent for an insurance company you are pretty hot stuff."

"What is your name?" The caddie a avoided looking and blithely took out a pocket knife and cut the strings of the cigarette, opened his mouth and replied. "Mustard — Louie Mustard." — Milwaukee Free Press.
